WHO CARES?

We do, because we are aware of the crisis that our country is facing, and we have the capacity and the know-how to do something about it.

Right after the Beirut blast, and while people had lost all their trust in financial institutions, Fidelity was a pioneer in paying claims without waiting for the official reports.

With the near collapse of the medical sector, and while social security was, and still is, covering a fraction of the cost, we stood by our customers and covered their medical treatments in full.

Over and above, we gave our Life Insurance clients the option to alter their payment method and/or duration with an additional 6-month grace period, on top of the two months mandated by law, in order to keep their policies in force.

Last but not least, throughout the lockdown period and political turmoil, we never stopped serving our clients and staying by their side 24/7.

At Fidelity we went far to stay close, because today, what the world needs most is caring.
